It's a Good Day to Celebrate the Louisville Urban League!

This year, the Louisville Urban League turns 100 years old. The Urban League has done untold good for a century now through their mission of "assisting African Americans and other marginalized populations in attaining social and economic equality through direct services and advocacy."

They provide a wealth of holistic, wraparound services all the time, but this year met even more challenges than usual. Over the past year, the Louisville Urban League helped with more than 200 job placements that had an average hourly wage of nearly $16. They helped test more than 1,600 people for COVID-19, did 400 home visits and transported 274 people to medical appointments, job interviews, home searches and shelter stays. And much more.

They are an amazing resource in this community, helping people create better lives for themselves and their families.
